

NEW VISITOR RECEIVES DEGREE HERE TODAY FRANK SHAUGHNESSY LEAVES MCGILL AT END OF SESSION

GOVERNOR-GENERAL MAKES FIRST OFFICIAL PUBLIC APPEARANCE IN MONTREAL

Lord Willingdon to be Honorary Doctor of Laws — Three Other LL.D.'s — Many Degrees and Diplomas for Students — Much Unusual Ceremony for Founder's Day, — Procession From Library — All Lectures Cancelled in Arts — In Other Faculties After 3 p.m.

The Right Honorable Viscount Willingdon, newly appointed Governor-General of Canada and ex-officio Visitor of McGill University makes his first official public appearance in Montreal this afternoon upon the occasion of the Annual Fall Convocation at the Royal Victoria College. His Excellency is one of the four men who are to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

The degree of LL.D. honoris causa, will also be conferred upon Mr. F. G. Finley, the Rev. Archdeacon F. C. Scott, and Samuel J. Willis, as distinguished citizens of the Dominion of Canada.

There will be much ceremony not usually connected with Founder's Day Convocation this year. The parade, as usual will start from the library. The party, led by the Visitor, Chancellor and Principal will proceed as far as the Roddick Memorial Gates. Here the leaders will stand aside and allow the rest of the procession to file by. Lord Willingdon, Dr. Beatty and Sir Arthur Currie will then take up their positions at the rear together with the rest of the senior party.

Convocation begins at 4 o'clock in the R. V. C.

The Founder's day convocation will this year be a more elaborate affair than ever before due to the fact that Canada's new Governor-General and McGill's new visitor is to make his first official public appearance in Canada upon this occasion. In addition there is the fact that the graduates reunion is taking place during the same week.

Graduates attending the Reunion who wish to attend the Convocation and thus take part in the first official ceremony of the new Governor-General will take their places in the procession in the College grounds, where they will be directed by the Marshal and his assistants.

Owing to the limited space available it will only be possible to issue a very few tickets. These will be for the gallery and will admit ladies only, wives of members of the staff or wives of graduates who are not themselves graduates. They will be issued at the Registrar's Office on Tuesday Morning, October 5th, in the order of application. Only 75 are available.

A number of seats in the lower portion of the hall are reserved for students who will lead in the songs on the program. Tickets for these are being issued to Miss Hurlbutt, Warden of the Royal Victoria College, and to E. C. Amaron, President of the Students' Society.

MCGILL'S NEW VISITOR

His Excellency, Viscount Willingdon, who will receive the Honorary Degree of LL.D.

Before Confederation united the Provinces of the Dominion the Royal Charter by which McGill was constituted a University, enacted that the Governor-General of the then Province of Canada should be the Visitor of the institution. This title at Confederation passed to the Governor General of the Dominion, who now holds it in virtue of his office.

The Visitor is not a member of the Corporation of the University, but represents the Sovereign here under the provision of the Charter, just as he represents the Sovereign at Ottawa, in virtue of the British North America Act. The Visitor of a Royal Corporation has an authority which is more or less undefined. He can intervene in any case where the members of the corporations transgress their powers, although it is needless to say the powers granted by its Charter to McGill are so broad that there is but little chance of their ever being exceeded. McGill thus enjoys the very singular distinction of having as its Governor-General of her own, and when Lord Willingdon comes to the Founder's Day Convocation he will receive not only as the representative of the Crown in Canada, but as representative of His Majesty at McGill. In this latter capacity he will take the senior place in rear of the Convocation Procession.

It is regarded as a signal honour by the members of the University that almost the first official act of Canada's new Governor-General should be his officiating at this Convocation. It is all the more pleasant in that the any graduates who will come to the Quinquennial Reunion from all parts of Canada and the United States will thus be able to greet in convocation His Majesty's now representative in Canada.

TICKETS FOR WOMEN SINGING

Fifty White Convocation Tickets to be Distributed

Fifty white tickets for Convocation have been allotted by the University to be distributed among women students who are assisting in the singing. They will sit in the front seats, on the left hand side of the hall (looking up), and are to be ready to sing, "God Save the King", "O Canada", "Alma Mater", and "About a Million Years Ago", (all to be found in Song Book or Hand Book).

Women students who receive these white tickets should report to Miss Isabella Scriver and Miss Leona Gray in the hall at 3:30 p.m. in academic dress, provided with Song Book or Hand Book.

The men students to whom tickets were issued for singing at the Convocation will also meet at the R.V.C. at 3:30 p.m. sharp and will report to Mr. Stewart Allen.

FRESHMEN ARE INTRODUCED TO MCGILL CUSTOMS

Colonel Bovey, Amaron, Professor Clapperton Speak

SMOKES AND MUSIC

Over Five Hundred Students Present at Last Night's Rally

Hardly distinguishable in the screen of smoke that enveloped them Errol Amaron, Coach Van Wagner, Colonel Bovey, Professor Clapperton, and others prominent in undergraduate life addressed some five hundred odd students who turned out to the Union last night to take part in the Pep Rally. Free smokes were plentifully dispensed and all the newest jazz pieces were played by the orchestra especially engaged for the occasion.

The applause which followed each number played by Freddie Gross' orchestra, the fine singing of all the college songs under the leadership of Prof. Clapperton, the hearty welcome tendered to all by Errol Amaron, the enthusiastic cheer leading by Jack Duckworth and his assistants, the addresses by the athletic coaches and the fine address by Col. Bovey showed that this years Pep-Rally was equal to any of the past.

At half-past eight, the students gave a rousing welcome to Errol Amaron, Prof. Clapperton and "Gordie" Nairn who acted as chairman of the evening. Amidst loud cheers he called upon Amaron to address those present. He remarked that the optimism displayed by everybody around the campus was greater than it has ever been before. He said "Every year all the classes start out with hundreds of freshmen but end up with a few graduates. This", he said, "is due either to the over-indulgence of the individual in too many activities or in the lack of financial means. The only way to offset the first cause is to apply yourself to the activity for which you are best fitted and to stick to it." He exhorted all those present to learn all the college yells and songs and to do more communal singing. Singing he said is an essential activity in college life and he promised to revive it once more and make McGill the "Singing University."

Jack Duckworth was next called upon to address the "thundering thousands". He declared that the position of cheer leader was looked upon by some individuals around the college as a joke. Led by his two assistants, he tried out both the old yells and some of the new ones and the applause they received was extremely gratifying and encouraging.

Prof. Clapperton lead those present in Communal Singing of all the college songs. The first number was "Hail Alma Mater." This was followed by "Come Fill Your Glasses Up" and "Rah, Rah, Rah, for Old McGill Boys." In conclusion, he said that the Choral Society intended to put "Tom Jones" on in the form of an opera at the Moyses Hall in the very near future.

Coach F. M. Wagner of the Track Team urged all Fresh and Soph students to turn out to practice, whether they had previous experience or not. Despite the fact that nearly half of last years track team had graduated, the coach said the old fighting spirit was still a 100 per cent. there. He believed that this year, the race for the championship would be keener than ever before as Toronto and Queens' both have excellent track teams. He urged everybody to come out and do their bit and help bring back the coveted cup emblem of the track champion. (Continued on page four)

BUSINESS REASON BROUGHT ABOUT MENTOR'S DECISION TO FORSAKE INTERCOLLEGIATE SPORT

Dissatisfied With Existing Conditions in College Football — Claims no Place for Professional Coach in Collegiate Sport — Assumed Leadership Here in 1912 — Won Three Football Championships and Tied Twice in 10 Years — Resignation Will be Severe Blow to McGill.

(By D. A. L. MacDonald.)

Frank Shaughnessy, coach of the McGill hockey and rugby teams since 1912 will resign his duties at the end of this season, according to a statement made yesterday afternoon. The McGill mentor gave his reasons for withdrawing from college sport to be chiefly business ones. He stated that there was no place for a professional coach in college football under the present conditions and that a more lucrative offer had been tendered him for next year. Just what the nature of the offer was the coach would not divulge, though he made it clear that it was a commercial proposition that caused him to switch the scene of his activities, which, however, would still be in Canada.

Dean Suggests Professors and Students be More Wide Awake

The new Arts Building is now completed for the session. All classes began regularly at 9 o'clock on the 4th instant, and since Friday and Saturday were given over to the Medical examination of students, only one day of regular work has been lost," stated Dean Ira Mackay of the Arts Faculty when interviewed yesterday. "The sincere thanks of every member of the student body and of the staff of McGill College is now due to the Chancellor, The Principal and the Board of Governors for this very fine new building dedicated to the study of the liberal Arts and Science at Old McGill. Thanks are also due to the Architects, Messrs McDougall and Fetherstonhaugh for the splendid way in which the building has been designed and finished, and to the Contractors, Messrs Anglin and Norcross for the expeditious way in which the designs have been made real in stone and mortar during the summer vacation," the Dean continued.

"Some of the tinting, wainscoting and final finishing touches still remain to be done, but these will be completed during the winter and the next summer vacation. Floors of hard wood have been laid in all the offices and conference rooms, and these rooms are, therefore, now ready for permanent occupation. It has been impossible, however, to lay wooden floors this Autumn in the larger classrooms. (Continued on page two.)

While these reasons were given by the McGill leaders for his decision to give up coaching, it is known that for some time he has been disappointed with affairs in intercollegiate football. Shaughnessy's views on the situation are, according to those who are in closest touch with him, that there is no call for a professional coach in intercollegiate football.

Questioned as to whether the recent developments in intercollegiate football, particularly the juggle of players at Queen's which has accumulated a good deal of space in the city papers lately, had anything to do with decision, the coach would make no statement. However, it is well known that he has been working under a distinct handicap here, for with Queen's getting taller-made footballers annually and with Varsity having triple the registration of McGill, the coach's task in moulding a championship team has been no easy one. Turn-outs for practices at the Molson stadium have been decreasing and this year saw no more than fifty men in uniform at the largest attendance. Moreover, few really experienced footballers have come to McGill in the past few years and the material that the coach has had to work on could never be called more than "raw but willing." Each year he has been faced with the herculean task of fielding a championship team with recruits who are green when the practices begin.

Coach Shaughnessy came here in 1912 and in ten years that McGill has fielded teams in rugby and hockey—there was a break of four years during the war—the coach has brought McGill three rugby championships and forced to tie for the honors twice. He started off in 1912 by winning the championship and repeated the following year, though in 1914, McGill lost out in the play-off Toronto. In 1919, when football was resumed after the war, the coach again had a championship team and in the following year forced Varsity to another tie. Since then McGill has slipped down and Queen's, after 18 long lean years got a title winning team. In the last two years, McGill has tied Varsity for the place behind Queen's in the standing.

Recognized everywhere as the brainiest football coach in Canada, the loss of Frank Shaughnessy will be a great blow to McGill. For years he has kept McGill always in the running in the intercollegiate race even when the most optimistic supporters conceded them no chance. He has been criticised because he has not won championships and now apparently he finds that under present conditions more barriers are thrown in his path he has been offered an opportunity and has taken it.

MONTREAL, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1926.

LORD WILLINGDON

McGill is honoured today by the presence of Canada's new Governor-General. Lord Willingdon comes to the university in his official capacity as visitor. Before Confederation united the provinces of the Dominion, the royal charter by which McGill was constituted a university, enacted that the then governor-general should be the visitor of the institution. This title after Confederation passed to the governor-general of the Dominion, who now holds it in virtue of his office. He represents the sovereign under the provisions of the charter.

His experiences in other parts of the Empire as governor well fits Lord Willingdon for the position of His Majesty's representative in Canada. It is no easy task to come into the Dominion at this time and take over the reins at Rideau Hall.

On behalf of the student body of Canada's greatest seat of learning, the Daily extends a hearty welcome to their Excellencies. We feel that it will not be long ere the respect which we hold for our new Governor-General and his lady as they enter upon their duties at Ottawa will be transformed into genuine affection.

THE SANER CO-EDUCATION.

From time to time in these columns the question of co-education has been raised. It has been discussed from very different points of view, ranging all the way from the enlightening historical method used on occasions when the women's department of the staff have had charge of the publication of the issue, to the philosophical discussions of a conscientious night-editor. It has happened in a few instances that the opinions here expressed have drawn forth violent opposition from some of the undergraduates to whom some strange custom has given the appellation of "co-ed." Whether the problem of co-education—in other words, the education of men and women in the same university, and in the same courses—has been successfully handled at McGill may well be briefly discussed.

The underlying question which must be solved in making arrangements for co-education, is that of whether large groups of boys and girls under the supposed "age of reason" can study together or even attend lectures together without allowing the attention which should be turned on their work to be wasted in the contemplation of the attractions of those of the opposite sex with whom they are associated. This question seems to have been answered with satisfaction by the introduction of a sort of "education to co-education," which is carried on for first year students as well as the rest of their course.

As a result of this, by the time the men and women reach the smaller and more specialised classes of the third and fourth years, where they are thrown in contact with each other without attempt at restriction, they have been apprenticed to the system, and know how to act without either awkwardness or foolishness.

Of course, in the faculties where professional studies are carried on—such as Medicine and Law—there is no problem at all, now that the question of whether women shall be allowed to study has been decided. And it would be only natural that if there should ever be a desire expressed by women to study Applied Science, they would soon find their way into that faculty too. So it hardly would seem too much of a generality to say that the problem of co-education is settled at McGill, and settled in a logical way.

THE OLD FAITHFULS.

There are many of us around the University who take things largely as a matter of course; we pass by or even through the splendid buildings that have been put at our disposal by generous and far-sighted benefactors, and their wonders do not impress us in anything more than a passing way. That this is a human failing is well-known, but that does not make it any less lamentable.

But there is, perhaps, one sphere of the University's many-sided existence in which we might be much more thoughtful and appreciative if we gave it the least consideration. We refer to the part played by the "Old Faithfuls"—the janitors of the various buildings, and the assistants in the many laboratories.

If we only realized the fact, it would probably startle us to recall that from the very day we entered college—probably with a rather hesitant and uncertain step—we have been under the kindly eye of one or more of these old friends of the undergraduate. Whether it was Bill or Harry or Joe or Sam does not concern us here: the fact remains that they told us what room to go to, and how to get to it—they provided us with a much-needed locker—they taught us many of the little "dodges" that make the days go so much more smoothly—and did a hundred and one things for us that we will remember only as we stop to think.

We have no better representatives of that real McGill spirit which we all covet than these faithful servants, and we might well show them in the year that lies ahead of us some of the appreciation that all of us who know them feel.

A GOOD AUGURY.

The good fellowship and general enthusiasm displayed by the undergraduates about the Union last evening on the occasion of the Annual "Pep Rally" is, to say the least most encouraging. Old McGill can look forward to a prosperous year if this true type of college spirit is maintained throughout this session.

One of the most commendable features of this rally was the community singing introduced by President Amaron.

Correspondence

The sentiments expressed in letters published in this column are those of the writers, not necessarily of the editors. Signed communications from anyone interested in the welfare of McGill University will be printed. Anonymity will be preserved when requested but the writer's name and address must be attached as a mark of good faith.

Correspondents will please write legibly and use one side of the paper only. If you would be pungent, be brief.

Dear Sir:—We have read Mr. John Scott's letter in yesterday's Daily complaining that the Editors of the McGill Fortnightly Review are withholding their names from the public. We wish to say that there is no attempt being made to keep the matter a secret; we are merely following the excellent example of your own paper and are not intending to print a list of the names of the Editorial Board.

TELLS HOW BANANA BECAME DELICACY

Dr. Hill Delivers Lecture on Kew Gardens

How the banana came to be a delicacy of food for the English speaking world was discussed by Dr. Hill, F.R.S. in the course of an illustrated lecture on the Royal Botanical Gardens at Kew which he delivered under the auspices of the Sigma Xi Society at the Physics Building yesterday afternoon. Dr. Hill is Director of the Royal Botanical Gardens at Kew and this was his last lecture on this side of the water as he sails for England today.

Tracing the history of the famous Kew Gardens, Dr. Hill said that their origin was quite accidental, being founded by the Princess Augusta, mother of George III, in 1760 as a private little garden near her palace at Kew. George III, on becoming king, continued the care of the gardens with the aid of Sir Joseph Banks as his botanical adviser.

With the brief historical summary over, Dr. Hill then showed his audience, by means of lantern slides, several views of the gardens and of a great many of the plants and shrubs which the various buildings of the house. Of interest to Canadians, he pointed out, is the fact that amongst the many species of trees in the gardens, there is a Douglas Fir standing 214 feet in height and which was transported from British Columbia to be converted into a flag pole.

BOOKLET DESCRIBES MCGILLS PROGRESS

Issued by Principal for Graduates' Reunion

SIX YEARS ADVANCE

Outlines Both Scholastic and Material Progress at the University

Graduates of McGill will tomorrow morning receive a small volume dealing with past six years history at the University. The booklet has been prepared especially for the Reunion by the Principal, Sir Arthur Currie, and takes account of both material and scholastic changes. By way of preface there is a tribute to those members of the University who served overseas.

In commenting on his appointment to the principalship of McGill, Sir Arthur stresses the point that his work is of a purely administrative nature. He expresses the belief that organization and esprit de corps would be of the same assistance to him here as they had in France.

The book goes on to review the building program as outlined in the University report for the session 1920-21. At this time, the necessity of extending the Old Medical Building to form a Biological Building, the provision of further accommodation of books in the Redpath Library, the remodelling of the Arts Building and the erection of a gymnasium and dormitories occupied with the realization of the greater part of these needs.

The rest of the book is an amplification of detail of the building, and other programs of advancement carried out by the University. The concluding article deals with the students. "Too many students come to the University with no definite aim in mind. Too many expend an undue amount of effort in extra-curricular activities", the Principal declares.

as the building must be allowed some months to settle before this can be done in a satisfactory way. Temporary rough wooden floors have been placed in these rooms, and will be quite satisfactory for the present year. Owing also to the speed in which the work has been done, some old seats have been placed in some of the rooms, but these will all be repolished or replaced next summer when the floors are finally laid.

"The new building, as originally designed, is tailor-made to comfortably fit about 1200 students, but a larger number than this could be entertained without much difficulty. It may be doubted if there is a College building anywhere capable of so conveniently and comfortably accommodating so many students within such a small amount of actual building material. One thing, however, should be noted; that is that there is really no further room for any more classes at 10 o'clock in the morning. The number of classes at this hour must, therefore, remain as at present. There is, however, plenty of room for more classes at other hours of the day. Business men usually reach their offices about 10 o'clock in the morning, University Professors and students should be more wide awake. 9 o'clock is the best hour of the day for University lectures.

"The work which has been done this summer has only replaced part of the old McGill College. The old East Wing still remains untouched. All old McGill graduates know, too, that this East Wing was originally the home of a former revered Principal, Sir William Dawson, and that Sir William Dawson, when alive, was one of the most eminent Geologists of his time. It seems distinctly significant and suggestive therefore, that just at present McGill University is very much in need of adequate and suitable accommodation for a department of Geology. It is really impossible for the Professors of Geology to carry on their work satisfactorily at present, and the importance of the study of

MACCABAEAN CIRCLE EXECUTIVE MEETS

First Meeting Will Take Place October 24

Entertaining as well as instructive meetings will form the general program of the Maccabaeon Circle for the session 1926-27, according to the Circle Executive, which met yesterday evening at the Sigma Alpha Mu House. The Maccabaeon Circle is the official Jewish organization at McGill, and its meetings are open to the Jewish student body as well as to those interested in Jewish problems and culture.

The Maccabaeon Circle will continue the policy of former years as far as the literary instructive part of the program is concerned. Well known and well informed speakers will be invited to address Circle meetings on subjects of Jewish as well as of general interest. Moreover, some of the meetings will be reserved for Circle talent exclusively; at these meetings interested and courageous members will address the Circle and will take part in symposiums and debates. The Executive emphasized that one purpose of the Circle was to develop the latent speaking ability of the members.

A suitable social program is being arranged which promises to be more extensive than that of the last session. A part of each meeting will be devoted to entertainment of a musical or other character. Moreover, the Circle will hold a Formal Dance which will take place this year, the Executive announced, during the first part of the session.

The tentative date for the first meeting of the Maccabaeon Circle is the 24th of October. The Executive urges that all who are interested in Jewish learning and problems to be present at the meeting.

this subject in Canada is too obvious to call for special comment. A very interesting suggestion has, therefore, been made by several friends of McGill that the present East Wing might be extended and repaired so as to provide for a department of Geology and a new Hall to be dedicated to the memory of Sir William Dawson, and therefore, to be known as Dawson Hall. If the East Wing were rebuilt after the style of the work which has been done this summer, the whole building cornering on the present elevation could be made into one of the most beautiful structures of its kind.

"There is an old entry on the McGill records dating from 1880, the year in which the 25th anniversary of Dawson's Principalship was celebrated, when the graduates of the University meeting at that time passed the following resolution:—

"RESOLVED that the graduates of McGill here assembled propose to commemorate the 25th year of the Principal's tenure of office, by the creation of a University Fund for the erection of a University building to bear his name."

"This resolution still remains unfulfilled, and the present time seems to offer suitable opportunity in which to consider its terms more carefully than ever.

"In any case, the proper location for a Dawson Hall seems to be the East Wing of the old Building, with a suitable front elevation and entrance facing on the little Campus between the Biological Building and the Macdonald Engineering Building.

THROWING CROCHET BALL WAS WEIGHTS EVENT IN 1876

Program of Sports Reveals Some Weird Competitions

WALKING RACE

Winner of this Event was Presented With Cane — Complete Program

(By R. W. Jones)

One of the most entertaining things brought to light by the Graduate's Reunion is a program of McGill sports held in October 1876 just 50 years ago. The program was forwarded to the "Daily" by Dr. H. B. Small of Ottawa, himself a graduate. It is sure to be of interest to some McGill's older Alumni, although it is likely to appear novel amusing to the most of the present day undergraduates.

The program is headed "McGill University Athletic Sports, 1876. Tuesday, 24th October on the College Grounds." There was of course no stadium at that time, the Campus being used for all sporting events. Some of the items which compose the list of events are never heard of today in University or Intercollegiate athletic and as a result appear quite humorous to the average collegian of this generation but no doubt they were taken seriously enough by the men of 50 years ago.

Among the events is a "Three Legged Race," number three on the afternoon program and scheduled to be run off at 2.45. The prizes for each class of sport are listed after the name of the events and in this case they were napkin rings. Number six on the program is a "Wheel Barrow Race" the winner of which received a set of studs (cuff links). The prize for the "Walking Race" is quite appropriately a cane, while the winners of the "Steeple Chase" to receive an inkstand and a cigar case respectively. Another unusual event is named "Throwing Crochet Ball" for distance, being evidently an event which at that time took place of the shot put.

The complete program is printed below as a matter of interest.

INTERFACULTY RUGBY TO START ON FRIDAY

Double Bill Will Open Season of Five Games

D. H. Puddicombe, interfaculty rugby manager, in conjunction with the various managers of interfaculty rugby teams at a meeting held yesterday in the Annual room in the Union, drew up the schedule of games for this year. The new schedule supercedes all previous ones published and on Friday two games will be played to start the season under way.

In all, five games will be played by the six teams in the league and if a winner has not been decided by the last game which will be played on Oct. 15, a semi-final series will be arranged for the next week. The winner will then meet Macdonald college squad for possession of the Wood Trophy.

Medicine are the first in the field to call a practice which takes place today on the old campus at four-thirty and it is expected that owing to the proximity of the first games, the others will lose no time in getting down to business. Friday will see a double-header with Dentistry meeting Commerce in the opener and Medicine clashing with Science in the night-cap.

The schedule:
Oct. 8—2.15 Dentistry vs. Commerce
2.45 Medicine vs. Science.
Oct. 12—2.45 Arts vs. winner Science—Medicine.
Oct. 15—2.15 Arts vs. winner Dentistry—Commerce, 2.45 Loser Dentistry—Commerce.

DOWN TO BRASS TACKS

With D. A. L. MacDonald.

A BAD BUSINESS.

"Every Canadian rugby fan watches the movements of Batstone; he is back in Kingston" a streamer in the sports page of a downtown paper blazed forth yesterday. Rather, let us say, "every Canadian rugby fan is watching the movements in Canadian intercollegiate football; Batstone is back in Kingston". For it is intercollegiate football that is coming in for the unwelcome publicity, and the recent move of last year's captain of Queen's squad merely brings the matter to a head.

Four year ago, Batstone, Thomas and others suddenly took it into their heads to go to college. The Canadian rugby fan could not figure it out and scratched his head perplexedly. Last year, it was announced that Leadley was returning to college to proceed to a higher degree, and the Canadian rugby fan wrinkled his forehead in thought. This spring the great triumvirate, Batstone, Leadley and Thomas graduated, but in the early fall came the news that Monahan would play for Queen's. This time the Canadian rugby fan found his voice and hissed "steam-fitter". Events then followed a bit too fast for the Canadian rugby fan. Just hours after the news was flashed that Voss had failed his exams and was ineligible to play, Ivan Raynor, suddenly showed up in Kingston. Raynor spent the week there and finally packed back to Hamilton. The Canadian rugby fan watched the game of checkers and smiled sardonically, but the latest news that Batstone is back at Queen's has completely bowled him over.

This is the last straw. It is not so much the case of Batstone as the shadow it casts upon the intercollegiate game. "Rumors of war" says a caption in the Toronto Globe over a mention of a prophecy that there will be an upheaval in college football. "Batstone's change to Queen's causes football furore" is the heading over nearly a full column article in a city morning paper devoted to the question. "Batstone's desire to become a doctor causes sensation" echoes a city down town paper with a cut entitled "Batstone himself". And it is this very sort of sensation that college football does not want and from which it is bound to suffer.

Four or five years ago, intercollegiate football, and indeed, college sport of all branches, was looked up to as being a strictly amateur and very virtuous organization. When amateur hockey and amateur baseball and, in fact, every amateur sport that was suspected of making money was accused of being semi-professional, college men pointed out with pride to the fine record of college sport. And today, the Queen of college sports is getting the same lurid publicity as a fashionable divorcee. She is being accused of moral turpitude.

The time for action has come. There are three courses open and any one of them present a reasonable solution. A board of governors controls intercollegiate sport and through them all eligibility forms must pass. The fate of college football rests in their hands. A strict surveillance on all forms submitted to them prevents a re-occurrence of the present state of affairs.

Or, Canadian colleges can follow in the steps of their American cousins and enforce the freshman rule and the three-year rule. No football player entering an American university can play on the varsity team until he has successfully reached his second year in his studies. He is allowed to play three years and no more, and if he transfers to another college, he is barred there. Although American colleges are often accused of professionalism, these two rules have done a great deal to curb the evil.

U.O.F. M. INTER. MEET MCGILL

Squads Clash at Stadium — Juniors Default

The McGill Intermediates will open their football season this afternoon when they meet the University of Montreal squad at the Stadium at 2.1. The McGill team is practically a new squad this year while very little is known about the Frenchmen.

The only members of last year's intermediates who will play tomorrow are O'Meara (Middle), Pugh (Inside) and Munroe (Snap). Two freshmen, Robertson and Calder, from Lower Canada are expected to turn in a good game as quarter and half respectively. With the addition of several of last year's Juniors the Red and White is expected to field a particularly heavy team today.

There are now four teams in the intermediate intercollegiate loop; the U. of L., U. of M., Loyola and McGill being members this year. Bishops' was beaten by Loyola in the first game last Saturday afternoon. Today attraction was originally billed as a doubleheader but the University of Montreal defaulted the junior game to McGill yesterday.

MERMAN PREPARE ACTIVE PROGRAM

Clayton Bourne Returns to Strengthen Swimming Team

PRACTICE TODAY

Coaches to Give Special Attention to Newcomers — Schedule Announced

(By the Natatory Nymph).

Although McGill lost some big men among the swimming representatives last spring, the meeting held in the Union last evening showed that there were numerous aspirants to those honours. The schedules and plans for the year were formulated and if the enthusiasm shown then is to be manifested in actual work there will be no fear of McGill regaining the swimming honours and also holding on firmly to the fourteenth consecutive polo title.

Mort Gibbons outlined the plans for both swimmers and poloists, pointing out that seventy-five per cent of the teams was registered again. Coupled with this, the fact that Clayton Bourne was back, together with new stars from the States, made things very promising. The Intercollegiate Union last spring had formulated a plan to tour the States after Christmas. McGill has an excellent contribution to make to this, but while the color men had returned, Gibbons pointed out that no positions on any team had been granted, so that new men will have a great opportunity to make a name for themselves if they display their merit. New men are earnestly requested to turn out for practice at the Knights of Columbus Tank, 259 Mountain Street.

These are the scheduled hours:—
Mon., Wed., Friday—5.30—6.45 p.m.
Tuesday—2.30—6.30 p.m.
Thursday—5.30—6.30 p.m.
Tuesdays and Thursdays have been made special tuition days when a member of the Intercollegiate team will be in attendance between 5.30—6.30 p.m. to aid and assist any member, non-swimmer or swimmer, while on other lines Mark Ventry will look after the beginners. This is an innovation to foster and encourage talent which beforehand might have been overlooked in the fact that one coach cannot handle a mixed concourse of fifty or so, ranging from sinkers to flyers. In connection with the McGill teams, Mr. Ed. Ventry was unanimously and enthusiastically re-appointed as Honorary Coach. He has tactfully coached, piloted, cheered, thrown chairs at the teams for the last four years and his presence will give a decided impulse to the morale of both teams.

The Polo teams, both Intermediate and Junior have a big fall programme. Their schedule for the City League is as follows:—

Intermediate
Oct. 21—C.P.R. A.A. vs. McGill
Oct. 28—McGill vs. Grads.
Nov. 10—McGill vs. M.A.A.A.
Nov. 17—McGill vs. C.P.R. A.A.
Nov. 25—Grads. vs. McGill.
Dec. 2—M.A.A.A. vs. McGill.
Junior, Division A.
Oct. 21—C.P.R. A.A. vs. McGill
Oct. 25—McGill vs. M.A.A.A.
Nov. 3—McGill vs. C.P.R. A.A.
Nov. 11—M.A.A.A. vs. McGill.
Nov. 18—McGill vs. Columbus.
Nov. 25—Columbus vs. McGill.

YALE NAVAL UNIT IS FOUR-YEAR COURSE

Inaugurated This Year — For Navy Commissions

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 5.—(By Exchange Service) The founding of a naval unit at Yale, based on lines similar to the Harvard Unit, was announced today by the University authorities. A course in naval science and tactics, to cover four years, will be given, the object of which will be to graduate students who, in conjunction with their regular university studies, have qualified United States Naval Reserve. In themselves for commissions in the time of war, graduates who have accepted commissions would be transferred as commissioned officers to the regular navy.

The Navy Department has detailed naval officers to take charge of the Yale unit, both of whom are graduates of the United States Naval Academy and the Naval War College. They are Captain Frank D. Berrien and Lieut. Commander L. B. Green 2d. They will be assisted by three chief petty officers, and as the unit increases each year additional personnel will be ordered to the university.

The course is limited to 60 students in each class, beginning with this year's freshman class, and will be one of the five regular electives offered to freshmen for the current academic year. All Students taking the course must start in the freshman year, and will be maintained as a unit, whether they continue their studies at Yale College or in the Sheffield Scientific School. The first two years will form the basic course, and the last two the advanced course.

A tailored uniform similar to that worn by officers in the navy, with special insignia, will be furnished each student without cost, in addition to other equipment required on cruises. Students will not be required to wear the uniform to lectures except on special occasions. All books, equipment and facilities for practical work will be furnished for use without charge, while the Government will pay those entering the advanced course commutation of subsistence amounting to about $120 a year.

FRESHMEN INTRODUCED TO MCGILL CUSTOMS

pionship which had so long rested at McGill.

After Van Wagner concluded his remarks on the prospects of the track team there was an interlude in the programme during which the orchestra, which had been doing good work all evening, played several selections which went over in great style.

Loud cheers greeted the announcement by the chairman that Gordie Hughes was present and was going to speak. Gordie received a great hand from the crowd as he came limping down the aisle and took his place on the platform. "We have a great spirit up there" he said referring to the conditions at the field house, and went on to say that the players were out to do their "damndest" to win. He branded as false the rumours going around that the team was not in the best condition and said that every member of the squad was out on the track at 6.45 a.m. In closing, Gordie made an earnest appeal to all those present to get behind the team and back it to the utmost. "When any player makes a mistake on the field don't just sit back and say 'Oh Hell' but put your whole heart into the cheering. It helps a whole lot and I don't mean maybe."

Gordie Hughes was followed on the platform by Col. Bovey. The colonel spoke briefly of his experience at the Third Congress of the Universities of the Empire held at Cambridge, Eng., this summer. He pointed out the fact that McGill at this congress was looked upon as the third university of the world. The general feeling was, said Col. Bovey, "that although Oxford and Cambridge will always be looked upon as the leading universities of the Empire, yet McGill was considered as the leading modern university. Especially was this the case in the realm of physical education. Col. Bovey asked everyone—the freshmen in particular—to see that the morale of the college was kept up, and supplemented Gordie Hughes remarks by asking for support for the various athletic teams.

The main event of the programme was now about to take place—the singing of the "Utah" by Earle Amaron. After making a few announcements relative to the Convocation Parade, Earle announced that he had something to present in the nature of an atmospheric prologue to Alouette. This consisted in a trio singing a ditty (said to have been composed by the wife of a Scotch professor and dedicated to the three birds on the McGill crest) concerning the adventures of three crows and one that wasn't there at all.

After Alouette had been plucked to everyone's satisfaction the evening's program was concluded by the singing

U. S. CONSTITUTION TO BE DISCUSSED

Boston College Gets $10,000 From Anonymous Donor

Boston, Mass., Oct. 5.—(By Exchange Service)—A gift of $10,000 by an anonymous donor has made possible an annual series of lectures by eminent authorities on the Constitution of the United States at Boston University, here. Dean William M. Warren of C. L. A. is making arrangements for the first of the series, which will probably come early in the second semester.

The gift is for the purpose of stimulating "a study of the Constitution of the United States, its antecedents, history and doctrines, together with the results and implications thereof."

Provision is made under the gift for prizes and awards to be given from time to time to students showing marked proficiency in the study of the Constitution. Details of this phase are left with President Marsh and Dean Warren.

Under the terms of the gift the income will provide for a number of lectures each year, the lecturer to be appointed annually. "It is the intention to secure each year recognized authorities on the Constitution to deliver the addresses," said Doctor Marsh, in announcing the gift. As yet no announcement has been made as to who will deliver the lectures during the coming year.

The lectures will be open to the "students and friends of the University family," according to the terms of the gift.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY SHOWS TOLERANCE

Charitable to Every Form of Thought Editorial Says

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 5.—(By Exchange Service)—That Queen's University is charitable to every form of thought is the substance of an editorial published in the second issue of The Queen's Journal. The editorial reads as follows:

"Queen's may oil your clockwork. 'Why did you three hundred and thirty-five freshmen come to Queen's?' 'Three hundred and thirty-five different voices will answer: Because Queen's has the best football coach in Canada. On account of the social life. Because it does not cost so much. Because my great aunt Jane came here. There will be half a hundred more plausible reasons which everyone has heard before, but it will be safe to say that only two or three will give that best possible reason: Because there is more intellectual freedom at Queen's than at any other Canadian University."

"You may be a socialist or a conservative, a fundamentalist or a modernist, an advocate of birth-control or an opponent of it. Whether you are student or professor you do not run the risk of being ejected for your beliefs. In almost every other university in Canada there are some subjects which, officially or tacitly, are under a ban; every now and again we hear of a professor being asked to resign because he is too honest to submit to cramping regulations. But at Queen's it is the boast that the university is charitable to every form of thought."

"This does not mean that you will find advanced constructive thinking the rule here. Far from it. Three quarters or more of the students seem to be dead from the neck up as far as original thought is concerned."

"Too many of the instructors are satisfied with telling their classes what other people have written, rather than giving them the results of original thought and research. The student can get the book stuff from the books, usually with less trouble."

"But at Queen's you will find groups of professors in each faculty who are pushing outward the borderlines of knowledge. There men are worth more to the students who take classes under them than all the rest together. You three hundred and thirty-five new-comers will do well to search them out and arrange your courses, so that you will take as many lectures from them as possible. It may be difficult to tell them from the others at first. You will be here some time, it is likely, before you find out that some of them are the greatest authorities in the world in their particular branches of their subjects. Yet they are here, more or less unappreciated by everyone. No modern text books in their fields of thought can be written without mentioning each of their names half a dozen times. Whatever faculty you are in, search them out. If you come into close contact with them you may possibly learn to think too."

of Hall Alma Mater. The rafters of the hall resounded with a chorus of lusty young voices raised in the McGill yell; and one of the poppiest rallies ever held was at an end.

COLLEGE ASKS FOR BIG APPROPRIATION

North Carolina University Wants Sum of $4,640,000

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 5.—(By Exchange Service).—Appropriations amounting to $4,640,000 will be asked for by the University of North Carolina from the coming general assembly. It was decided at a meeting of the executive committee of the trustees of the University, held in Raleigh, September 24.

Of this amount $2,383,000 is for permanent improvements, $1,111,000 for maintenance in 1927-28, and $1,146,000 for maintenance of the sessions of 1928-29.

A new library building to cost $861,700 is the largest item on the list of permanent improvements. This building is to be located about the center of the campus, and it is to be the first construction begun.

GRADS FROM ALL CLASSES REGISTER

From the British West Indies, from every province of Canada and nearly every state of our southern neighbour M.D.'s have descended on McGill. The palm for long-distance travelling would seem to fall to Mr. Smith, whose home is at Urenui, Taranaki, New Zealand.
